- Have everyone make a personal emergency supply kit to survive 72 hours on their own. See Step 3 in this brochure to learn what should go in your kit.

2 Make a Plan

Discuss with your family:

What to prepare for—Discuss the hazardous events most likely to happen in your area. Talk about how to respond and cope with different types of natural disasters, prolonged loss of utilities or water, a terrorist event, or a major public health emergency.

Whom to contact—Stay in touch by having an in-town and out-of-town family contact. If separated, notify the family contact – tell them how you are, and arrange to reunite with other family members.

- Where to meet—Pick two places:
1. Outside your house in a safe location in case of a fire or other emergency
 2. Outside your neighborhood in case you cannot return home.

Whether to go or stay—Discuss the nature of hazardous events that would require staying put or evacuating your home, business, or school. Also consider:

- A plan for children in childcare or school, older adults, and other family members who need special assistance
- A plan for the care of your pets (see Montgomery County’s Pet Preparedness guide). Montgomery County may provide pet shelters during an emergency; for more information call 311.

What to do—Have each family member put together an emergency supply kit and keep them in a safe place in your home, office, or school. Be prepared to take them with you if evacuation is required.

3 Make a Kit

Think about what you need for basic survival. Make an emergency supply kit and keep it readily available to make it easier on you and your family to shelter in place or evacuate. For each person in your family, gather essential items needed to survive for 72 hours (3 days) or more.

Water

Food

Clothes and Shoes

Can Opener

Radio and Batteries

Flashlight and Batteries

First Aid Kit

Medications

Hygiene Items

Important Documents

For more information on what to include in your kit, visit www.montgomerycountymd.gov/MakeAKit.

4 Get Involved - Help Others

- Once your family is prepared, help others:
1. Contact older relatives, neighbors, and friends, and assist in emergencies
 2. Support neighborhood, church or civic groups actively involved in emergency response
 3. Join emergency volunteer organizations—some offer regular training in response, CPR, first aid, and more.
